THE CHURCH BUDGET

By Rev. H. Wilson

(Paper read at the Presbyterian Workers' Conference)

Workers' Conference, , and Friends:

The subject of "Church Budget" is next in importance only to evangelism. Excepting winning the soul to Christ there is nothing that has more to do with the building of Christian character and the forming of proper ideals than a right view of the Church budget.

To get the right view of the Church budget there are a few essential questions one should understand thoroughly and settle for himself by the light of the Scriptures.

I. Why the Budget?

that it is necessary in any well ordered business establishment or well ordered home. The financial problems are insistent in the church as in any other enterprise--perhaps even more perplexing. Church finance must he faced and dealt with either successfully or unsuccessfully.

1. The budget, then, is necessary because it is the only ate budget for pastor's salary, businesslike method of dealing with Church finances. There is an old idea among business men unfavorable to the church recause they were forced to admit that it was a very difficult task to collect a church debt. "Not slothful in business" is enjoined on the church with as much emphasis as being "refvent in spirit serving the Lord." A well planned budget presents to the members defi-nite objectives. When the people know what they are working to they work with much more en-thusiasm. There is more co-operation and consequently better results.

3. It does away with the guess-work manner of estimating and collecting moneys. This haphazard, guess-work manner is responsible for much of the trouble experienced in church work in the past, which a faith-ful, well worked-out budget system will entirely eliminate or reduce to a minimum.

II. What Should Be Included in the Budget?

The next question that is

Dr. Gaston, Members of the | the head of miscellaneous. III. Arranging the Budget

There are three different methods being practiced in arranging the items in the budget. Each arrangement is made with respect to the intended method of collecting. The single oudget system is used by those churches that combine all items of expense under one head. They use the single envelope for collecting and the officers apportion the funds out as they think best. Then there is the two budget system. In this system there is a budget that includes all local expenses and a separate budget for missions and benevolences. The method The budget is necessary for the church for the same reason double envelope system. The members pay their benevolent pledges in the red-print pocket and their local pledge in the black-print pocket. In some churches the blackprint pocket collection goes to pastor's salary and the basket or loose collection goes for other expenses. The third is the three budget system where there is a separ-a second budget for other local expenses and a third for benevolences. Memberstare asked to subscribe to each of the three budgets and a three-pocket en-velope is used for collection. Either one of the three methods is better than the guesswork, unbusinesslike method formerly used in most of our churches, but the second method where the budget is divided into two parts and collected by the double envelope system is the simplest and is being used by most of the progressive churches.

IV. Who Should Prepare the Budget?

With this systematic arrangement of the budget the next question which naturally comes s, who will prepare the budget? Of course, it is impossible for the pastor to stay out of this part of the work completely but we think it would be a mistake for him to arrange the budget even though his official staff is more or less incompetent. It taken in the selection of the persons who are to go out and canvas. None but the most loyal and faithful should be entrusted with so great a responsibility. A prayer and consecration service for canvassers, a magnifying of the solemn significance of the responsibility of the canvassers should help spiritually in preparing the church for giving pledges.

Finally, let us remember that organizing and arranging the machinery means nothing until it be charged with power from on high. For truly Jesus said, Without me ye can do noth-Through the divine power ng.' working in us we are enabled to show men that subscribing to the church budget is an en pression of love for Him wh gave His life for us. Under the head of salaries would come the pastor, janitor, the organist and the financial secretary The last named salary worker is seldom found in our churches, yet I am strongly of the opinion that where a financial secretary is paid for a few hours' work each month in checking envelopes and record ing receipts and disbursemnets the results will more than pay the cost. Under the head of upkeep we would place the fuel, light, water, insurance, installments, interests, Pension Plan payments. SOME WORKERS' CONFER-ENCE ADDRESSES

The subjects for discussion at the Workers' Conference this year were unusually well chosen, and each speaker showed a fine comprehension of the subject assigned. With this number we shall have published four of these addresses. The first by Mrs. J. D. Martin on "The School Dining Room a Vital Agency in Character Formation," was regarded with so much favor that there was a special request for its early publication. The second address on "Contrasting Methods of Discipline," by Rev. S. Q. Mitchell, dealt in a very thorough and sensible way with a perplexing question. Dr. W. I. Metz spoke thoughtfully Dr. on "The Church and the Com-munity." This week's address by the Rev. H. Wilson is a clear and concise treatment of the matter of the local church's finances, one of the hardest church problems. Others will follow in due time. All of these addresses are worthy of careful reading and study.

MONROE HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS WIN STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

The girls of Winchester Avenue High School, who journeyed to Durham to engage in he State basket ball elimination tournament last week, overcame all opposition to bring nome the laurels.

In the first game the Winhester Avenue team smothered Henderson Highs 25 to 0, with the substitutes playing a great part of the game. It was a fitting introduction to the large crowd.

In the second round Winchester girls met and defeated Johnson County Training School, one of the favorites to win in the tournament, by the ather lopsided score of 29 to 5. This game was characterized by the stellar work of Massey. Monroe's sensational forward. who scored 23 points.

In the semi-finals Monroe's girls met the team from Mary Potter Memorial School, overcoming an early lead to win 11 to 7, due largely to the spectacular guarding of Wallace and Horne.

The girls entered the finals n a jaded condition, due to their having already played two games the same day. However, after the lead had shifted a few times in the first half, the girls from Monroe, by exhibiting rare skill, team work and endurance, gradually forged ahead to win the final game of the tournament, 19 to 13.

Kate Massey with 50 points and Kate Thompson with 22 points led the individual scoring of the entire tournament, while the flashy pivoting and cool generalship of Redfern at center were the admiration of all. She obtained the tip-off more than three-fourths of the time, due largely to her agility. The floorwork and guarding of Wallace and Horne, Monroe's guards, grew more consistent as the games passed on. Wallace was especially brilliant in the semi-finals while Horne was equally spectacular in the finals. The success was due, however, more to superior team work than to anything else, and each one is to be commended. us cheer the new basket ball champions of colored high school girls in North Carolina. Mr. Lubis White, of Washington, D. C., was a pleasant visitor Sunday.

JOHNSON C. SMITH UNIVER-SITY Y. M. C. A.

Of the many agencies which go to make up the student life of Johnson C. Smith University long constructive lines certainly the Young Men's Christian Association stands out preeminently as a great inducement for those who desire to engage in such a life of usefulness. Sunday, March 8, the program of the vesper hour was under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., at which time Mr. L. E. Young, a business man of the city, delivered the address of the evening. The speaker used for his subject, "God's Call to Men." He urged that young men and youth of our day be prepared and willing to answer the call of God through a life of service. Although he expressed his timidness speaking before college professors and students, he gave a vivid picture of the lives of men who have answered the call of duty though service to their fellow man and to God.

The Boys' Club, a club composed of city boys mostly of the teen age. held their usual meeting in the "Y" hall of the University. This club was organized several months ago by Mr. H. L. Counts and Mr. R. L. Jeans, who went to the various city schools, associated by Mr. Shelton of the white Y. M. C. A. of the city, and secured permission to call all the boys together of a certain age and had them to meet at the University at which time they organized the Boys' Club. Mr. Counts was placed in charge, and he has shown a noteworthy interest in this group of boys. The one main purpose of the club is to keep the mind of these boys enengaged in something constructive, upon that which makes for character building. The leader plans to take the club on a mounatin hike as soon as the weather grows warmer.

At five o'clock a group of "Y' workers of the Social Service Committee, of which Mr. W. C. Lowery has charge, accompanied by the President, Mr. J. L. Powell, went over to the Good Samaritan Hospital of the city. They were greeted by a hearty welcome. They had prayer, sang and read the Bible with the sick who expressed their deep appreciation for such an experience and extended to them an invitation to return soon

In the meantime other members of the "Y" were getting ready to render a program at the Westminster Presbyterian church (white) of which Dr. W. B. McIlwaine is pastor. The Y. M. C. A. had the high honor of securing the service of Pres-ident H. L. McCrorey who delivered the address of the hour. The University chorus and quintette, under the direction of Prof. Faulkner, head of the Department of Music, rendered the music for the occasion. Mr. R. L. Jeans, who is chairman of the program committee, in his pleasing usual dignified and manner, served as master of ceremonies and presented Dr. McCrorey to the large and enthusiastic audience. Dr. McCrorey used for his subject: "America's First Duty." In his address he emphasized the great duty that our nation owes to the educational life of the American youth. He stated that the great crime wave and disrespect for law and order which is now sweeping the land is, to a large extent, due to led by the pastor and superinnegligence along the line of tendent, marched into the educating the American youth. church auditorium for the He also urged that the better thinkers of both races work hand in hand, in a spirit of unity and harmony; with a view of bringing about a better understanding and a more last-ing good will between the races of men, who must dwell side by side here upon the American soil. This can only be done by the spirit of Jesus Christ directing the lives of men. At the conclusion of the service there was a most hearty

Being a Christian-The Leader's Talk

When we speak of being a Christian we speak of being like Christ. We are told about Christ in the Bible. We are told about what we must do in or der to become Christ-like; therefore, all Christians should read the Bible. Christians should pray. Christ, our exam ple and perfect pattern, often prayed; and He taught His dis- shut in on the account of illciples to pray. It is impossible to live a Christian life without to be up again. prayer.

Christ was a worker. In the Bible we see ta busy Savior, preaching, healing, teaching, walking from place to place. He was touched at the sight of the crowds of people who were as sheep having no shepherd, and He was always working to save them.
